

Find the Seeker!

The pathless path to fulfillment and happiness

Find the Seeker! by Zen Master Genro Xuan Lou, Laoshi and his pupil, Zen teacher Clifford Stevens, takes us on an inner pilgrimage, compassionately picking us up where we are, whether beginners or longstanding seekers. Based on the wisdom and profound, first-hand experience of a modern-day Master as well as the teachings of enlightened ones throughout the ages, the book reboots our spiritual search in order to renew our limiting, thought-driven and ego-dominated lives. Focusing on the spiritual dimension underlying Existence which all of us share, the book addresses people of all faiths who suffer, are unhappy and seek to lead more fulfilling lives.

"This book is grounded, realistic and authentic. It entices us to follow the authors on the Middle Way--not in a painful, strained and complaining manner, but lighthearted and with joy. The book turns seekers into finders, and should be read again and again." --Fritz Maywald, management consultant, trainer and author

CLIFFORD STEVENS was born in the United States. His careers as a teacher, journalist, PR manager and translator led him to study Qi Gong, Zen and meditation with Genro Xuan Lou, Laoshi for many years. Meditation-imparted experiences and the Dharma transmission from Genro qualified him to be named a teacher of Zen.

Gert Beirer, who was born in Austria in 1945, studied Zen, meditation, Kung-Fu, Qi Gong and acupuncture in Asia. He was given the name Genro ("Origin of Joy") Xuan Lou, Laoshi (Laoshi = "Spiritual Master") by Zen Master Tetsuo Kiichi Nagaya Roshi. Genro Xuan Lou, Laoshi was named Zen (Chan) Master by the Abbot and Grand Master Kun Kong at the Lingyin Temple (Shakyamuni Buddhism) in Hangzhou, with whom he studied 11 years, by Abbot and Zen Master Shi Chan Ming in Wuhan, Province Hubei, China, and was also named Shifu or "Spiritual Teacher" in 2009 by Shi Xue Feng, Abbot of the Ding Shan Temple in Germany.
